

Stair Rail End Posts

Illustrated here are some of the choices available with respect to the top rail transitioning into the vertical post. The vertical post is an end post designed to accommodate hardware at a pitch. Stair intermediate posts and cable braces are bored at an angle or slotted to accommodate the cable passing through at the same pitch as the stairs. In certain cases, a separate grabrail must be installed onto a railing frame on a stairway.

